

The witch goes to the beach.

This story includes words that end with /ch/.

The witch goes to the beach.

The witch woke up early. She was very excited about going to the beach. "I'm so happy today. I've been waiting for a whole year to go to the beach!" she thought to herself.

The witch went over to her light switch and switched the light on. She looked at her watch and it was eight o'clock. It was time for her to get up.

The witch went downstairs had some breakfast. She had a peach and she really enjoyed it.

The witch also made a sandwich. “I will take this sandwich to the beach with me, then I won’t have to buy my lunch at the beach,” she thought.

Then, the witch started off on her walk to the beach. She walked past the church. The church bells were ringing and they were very loud.

Next, the witch walked past someone who was reading a speech. “How strange,” she thought and she carried on walking.

Then, the witch walked past a man who was itching his back. “This itch has been annoying me for a long time. I just can’t get this itch!” he said. “I’m seeing such strange things on this walk,” she thought to herself and she carried on walking.

Soon, the witch could see the beach and the sea in the distance. “I can’t wait for my feet to touch the sand,” she thought.

The witch had a wonderful time at the beach. She walked on the sand and swam in the sea. Then, she sat on a bench and ate her sandwich. “Yummy! That was a wonderful sandwich!” she said.

Then, the witch had another swim. When she next looked at her watch, it was eight o'clock at night. “I should start walking home now,” she thought.

By the time that the witch got home, it was very dark and she was hungry again. She ate another peach and another sandwich and then, it was time for her to go to bed.

The witch was so tired. She got into bed and thought about her wonderful day at the beach. Then, she fell straight to sleep.

The end.