

The giraffe and the loaf of bread.

This story includes words that end with /f/.

The giraffe and the loaf of bread.

The giraffe got up very early as he was excited about the day ahead. The giraffe was going to his favourite restaurant that night and he couldn't wait to eat a whole loaf of bread.

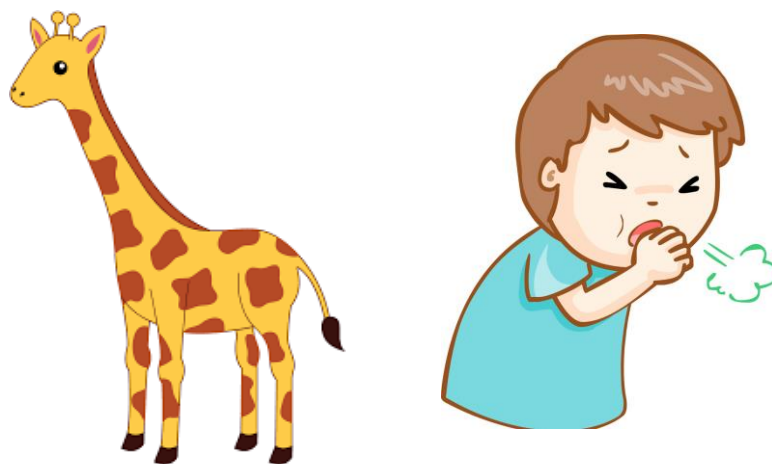

The giraffe had lots of things to do before he went to the restaurant. First, he got up and ate a leaf for his breakfast.

It was a cold day so the giraffe put his scarf on. “I don’t want my neck to get cold!” he thought to himself.

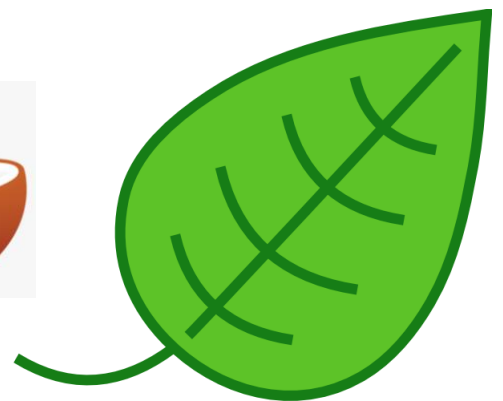

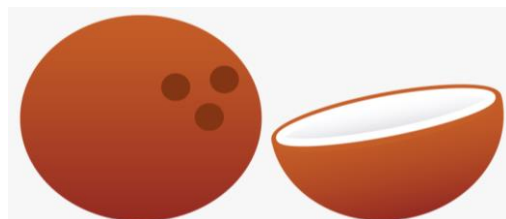

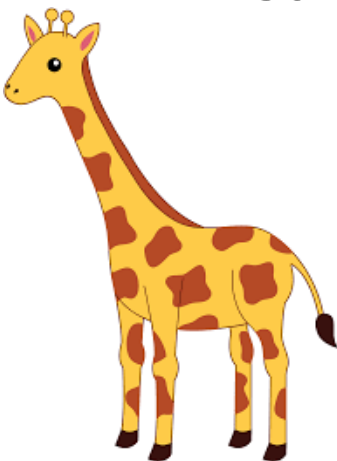

Then, the giraffe went to visit his friend who was poorly. His friend had a very bad cough. “I’ve bought you some cough medicine,” said the giraffe. “Thank you so much, I hope it makes my cough better!” said the giraffe’s friend.

Then, the giraffe went to play golf with his friend. They had a great time playing golf.

Then, the giraffe went home to get ready to go to the restaurant. "I'm hungry. I could have a snack before I go to the restaurant. I'll have half of a leaf. That will be enough," he thought to himself.

Then it was time for the giraffe to go to the restaurant. When he got to the restaurant, he said hello to the chef then sat down at his table. Then, the giraffe ordered a loaf of bread.

Soon, his loaf of bread arrived. The giraffe cut the loaf of bread in half with his knife and he really enjoyed it.

Soon, it was time for the giraffe to go home. When the giraffe got home, he could hear something shouting “Woof woof!” “It must be the dog next door,” thought the giraffe.

The giraffe looked up and realised that the dog was stuck on the roof. “Oh no, let me help you down!” said the giraffe. Once the dog was safely on the floor, he stopped barking.

Then, the giraffe got into bed. “What a busy day I’ve had. I think I’ll have a quieter day tomorrow. I’m so full after that loaf of bread!” he thought to himself. Then, the giraffe fell straight to sleep.

The end.