

The large man has a busy day.

This story includes words that end with 'j'.

The large man has a busy day.

The large man woke up early and thought, “What shall I do today?” As he couldn’t decide what to do, he decided to have his breakfast first and decide afterwards.

The large man got up and had a wash. He washed his face with his sponge and soon, he felt very clean. “That’s better!” he thought.

Then, the large man had his breakfast. He had an orange and really enjoyed it. “Yummy! I think I’ll have another orange later,” he said.

“I think I’ll read my book now,” thought the large man. As he turned each page, he became sleepy. Then, he fell to sleep. After a few minutes, he woke up! “I can’t go to sleep again, I’ve only just woken up!” thought the large man.

The large man decided to go and see his friend, the little man. They went on a walk over the bridge.

Then, the large man and the little man went to the car shop because the large man needed to buy a new car.

The large man bought a new car from the car shop and then the large man and the little man drove home in the new car. When the car was back at the large man's house, he parked the car in the garage.

Then, they went to the luggage shop. The large man was going on holiday and he needed a new case to put all of his luggage in. They had a great time at the luggage shop.

Then, the large man and the little man were very hungry so they went back to the large man's house to have some lunch. "I think I've got some food in the fridge," said the large man.

The large man looked in the fridge and found some cabbage and some sausage. The large man cooked the sausage and the cabbage and they really enjoyed it.

For pudding, they both had an orange.

Then, it was time for the little man to go home. “Thanks for a lovely day,” he said to the large man. Then, the large man went to bed. “I’m going to have a quieter day tomorrow. I’m so tired”, he thought to himself and then, the large man fell straight so sleep.

The end.
