

The king goes on a walk.

This story includes words that end with 'ng'.

The king goes on a walk.

The king got up early as he knew that he had a busy day ahead. He was looking forward to going on a long walk around his kingdom.

The king brushed his teeth and his tongue and then, it was time for him to set off on his walk.

It was a lovely warm spring day so the king didn't need his coat on.

The first person that the king walked past was a boy on a swing. "Good morning! I hope you're having fun on the swing," shouted the king and the boy waved at the king.

Then, the king walked past some children playing a game. “Hello, I hope you’re enjoying your game,” said the king. “Thanks, we are having a great time! We love playing this game!” shouted the little girl.

Then, the king saw a boy jumping on a trampoline. “Wow, you’re jumping so high! That’s amazing jumping,” shouted the king. “Thanks!” said the boy.

Then, all of a sudden, there was a big bang. The king turned around and realised that the boy had been jumping so high that he had jumped off the trampoline. “Are you ok?” shouted the king. Yes I’m fine thank you! This often happens when I’ve been jumping too high,” said the boy.

Then, the king walked past a jewellery shop. “I think I’ll buy a ring for the queen,” he thought to himself. He bought her a gorgeous ring.

Then, as the king walked out of the shop, he stepped on a bee. “Ouch! It’s stung my foot! What a sharp sting!” shouted the king. The king’s foot was too sore for him to walk on so he called the castle and someone came to pick him up. “At least that saves me walking home,” thought the king.

When the king got back to the castle, he looked forward to the entertainment for that evening; someone would be singing songs to him. The king enjoyed the singing and his foot soon started to feel better.

Once the king's foot felt better, he went to give the ring to the queen. She really liked the ring and put it on her finger straight away. "Thank you so much for this ring, it's the most beautiful ring I've ever seen!" said the queen.

Then, it was time for the king to go bed. "What a busy day!" he thought to himself. Then, the king fell straight to sleep.

The end.

