

The bear
goes to the fair.

This story includes words that end with
'r'.

The bear goes to the fair.

The bear was so excited about going to the fair. “I can’t wait to go to the fair!” he thought to himself.

The bear got out of bed and had some breakfast. He had a jar of jam on toast and then he had some porridge. “I need to remember to stir my porridge or it will be lumpy,” he thought to himself.

The bear really enjoyed his breakfast. A jar of jam on toast and porridge were his favourite foods. “That was yummy!” said the bear.

“I wonder what the weather is like today,” the bear thought to himself. He went outside and the air was cold. “I think I need to wear some warm clothes today,” he thought.

The bear put his jumper on and started walking to the fair. After a few minutes of walking, he was too hot so he took his jumper off. “My hair keeps me warm so I don’t need this jumper,” he thought.

As he was walking, he heard a “purr” sound. “I wonder where that “purr” sound is coming from,” he thought. He turned around and saw a cat. “Would you like to come to the fair with me?” asked the cat. “Yes please!” said the cat. So the bear and the cat walked to the fair together.

The bear and the cat walked past a tiger.
“Would you like to come to the fair with us?” asked the bear. “Yes please!” said the tiger. So the bear, the cat and the tiger walked to the fair together.

The bear, the cat and the tiger walked past a lovely flower. “Wow, what a beautiful flower and what a beautiful colour it is,” said the bear.

Soon, the animals arrived at the fair.
They had a great time. They went on the ferris wheel and won lots of games.
Soon, the bear, the cat and the tiger
were very tired. “I think it’s time for me to go home now,” said the bear.

The bear was too tired to walk home from the fair so his friend came to pick him up in her car.

When the bear got home, he had another jar of jam. “Yummy!” he said. Then, it was time for the bear to go to bed.

He looked up at the night sky and he could see a star. Then, he closed his eyes, “What a wonderful day! I think I might go to the fair again tomorrow,” he said. Then, the bear fell straight to sleep.

The end.
