The nurse has a busy day.

The nurse woke up and knew that she was going to have a busy day. There would be lots of people coming through her door.

The nurse had a glass of water then got ready to go to work.

She left her house at eight o'clock, walked over the grass and drove to work.

The nurse needed some petrol on the way to work so she used the money out of her purse to pay for the petrol.

The first person who came to see her at work was a mouse. The mouse said, "My tummy aches because I've eaten so much cheese." "Oh dear Mouse, you need to be more careful!" said the nurse.

Next, the nurse saw a horse. "I've hurt my feet because I've been galloping so much," said the horse. "Oh dear Horse, you must be more careful!" said the nurse.

Next on her list were some circus performers. They said, "We've hurt our arms because we've been swinging on our ropes too much." "Oh dear, you must be more careful when you're at the circus!" said the nurse.

The last person to see the nurse was a bus driver. "I've hurt my neck because I've been driving so much!" he said. "Oh dear, you all need to be more careful when you're driving your bus!" said the nurse.

At the end of the day, the nurse sat down at her desk and wrote her notes. "What a busy day," thought the nurse.

By the time the nurse got home, it was night time. "I hope people are more careful in future!" the nurse thought to herself. Then, she fell straight to sleep.

The end.
