

The fish makes a wish.

This story includes words that end with /sh/.

The fish makes a wish.

The fish was having a lovely day. He was really enjoying swimming along in the sea. He really liked to splash in and out of the waves.

Suddenly, the fish heard a loud crash and then, he bumped into something, "Ouch!" he said.

Then, the fish looked into the water and he could see a lamp. “Wow!” said the fish. The lamp was dirty so the fish gave it a wash in the sea water.

“I’ve seen these lamps on telly before. Normally there’s a genie inside,” the fish thought to himself. So, he rubbed the lamp and out popped a genie. “You have three wishes!” said the genie. “Wow! How exciting!” said the fish.

“For my first wish, I would like a moustache. I have always wanted a moustache!” said the fish. “Your wish is my command!” said the genie and soon, the fish had a moustache.

The fish loved his new moustache. “My second wish is for a new brush. I will need a new brush to make sure that I can brush my moustache,” said the fish. “Your wish is my command!” said the genie and soon, the fish had a new brush.

“For my third wish, I would like a new rubbish bin because mine has broken,” said the fish. “Your wish is my command!” said the genie and soon, the fish had a new rubbish bin.

The fish loved his new moustache and his new brush. He was also very pleased with his new rubbish bin.

Then the fish realised that the genie had vanished because the fish had used his three wishes.

“What an amazing day! I can’t believe that I’ve got a moustache, a new brush and a rubbish bin! I hope I catch another lamp tomorrow. I didn’t want the wishes to ever finish!” he thought. Then, the fish fell straight to sleep.

The end.
