The cat was eight.

The cat woke up early. It was his birthday and he was eight years old.

The cat was very excited about opening his presents. He couldn't decide what to eat for breakfast but then he decided that he would eat a carrot. The cat quickly ate his carrot then started to open his presents.

The first present that the cat opened was a woolly hat. "How wonderful! I've wanted a hat for ages!" thought the cat to himself.
Next, the cat opened a box with a coat inside. "This will come in useful! I need a new coat," he thought to himself.

Once the cat had opened all of his presents, he decided to go for a walk. He put his hat and his coat on then started off on his walk.

The sky was white and it looked like it was about to snow. "It's a good job that I've got my coat and hat on!" thought the cat.

The cat walked for a long time and when he next looked at his watch, he had been walking for a few hours. "My head is so hot in this hat!" he thought, so he took his hat off for a while.

Then, it started to snow. "I'm going to have to put my hat back on! It's probably time to go back home now, I didn't plan on walking this far," thought the cat.

Soon, it was dark and the cat was nearly home. "I can't believe it's night time already but what a beautiful night it is," thought the cat.

By the time the cat got home, he was covered in snow and it had all melted on him so he was very wet and cold.

"My feet are cold too," he thought. So, as soon as he got into his house, he put his slippers on. His feet soon got warm again.

The cat was so hungry after all of the walking that he decided to eat some more carrot. He really enjoyed his carrot and soon it was time for him to go to bed.

When the cat went upstairs, he realised that there was one present that he hadn't opened. So, he opened the present and there was a little boat inside. "Wow, a boat! I can't wait to play with this boat tomorrow! What a great birthday I've had!" thought the cat. Then, he fell straight to sleep.

The end.
