The gorilla makes friends.

The gorilla woke up and thought, “What shall I do today?”

The gorilla didn't have many friends and he was very lonely. He wasn't very good at making friends because he thought that everyone was scared of him. “I think I'll try and find some friends today,” he thought.

The gorilla brushed his teeth and gums then left his house to find some friends.

The gorilla went out for a walk and saw some children playing a game. “Can I join in?” said the gorilla. “Of course you can!” said the children. The gorilla made friends with the children and they had a great time playing the game.

Then, the gorilla saw a man playing golf. “Can I join in?” asked the gorilla. “Of course you can,” said the man. The gorilla and the man had such fun playing golf. The gorilla started to think that maybe people weren’t so scared of him.

Then, the gorilla saw a boy playing football. “Can I join in?” asked the gorilla. As soon as the gorilla kicked the ball, he scored a goal. “You’re really good at scoring goals!” said the boy.

It had been a very busy day for the gorilla. It was time for him to go home. He walked through his garden and into his house.

It was nearly time for the gorilla to go to bed. So he played his guitar for a few minutes then went to bed.

“What a lovely day I’ve had. I’m so glad that I’ve finally made some friends!”
thought the gorilla.

The end.
