

A day at the yoga class.

This story includes words starting with
/y/.

A day at the yoga class.

The yoga teacher was looking forward to her yoga class that day. She wondered who would come to her class.

The first person to arrive was a boy who was yawning. “I’m so tired. I don’t think I can do the yoga class today because I might fall asleep,” he said. “Well you’ll just have to just try. You need to go to bed earlier next time,” said the yoga teacher.

The next person to arrive at the class was a lady who was yelling. “Why are you yelling?” asked the yoga teacher. “I don’t know!” yelled the lady.

The next person to arrive at the class was a girl. “I just need to eat my yoghurt first,” said the girl. The girl started eating her yoghurt then said, “Yuck! I don’t like that yoghurt!”

Next, a boy walked in. “I just need to finish playing with my yoyo before we start,” he said. “Be quick or we will run out of time!” said the yoga teacher.

The last person to arrive at the yoga class was a yellow man. “Mmm yummy!” he said when he saw the girl’s yoghurt. “I’d like some of that yoghurt before we start the yoga class,” he said.

“Right, we need to start the class now or we will run out of time!” said the yoga teacher.

When the yoga teacher got home, she was so tired. “What a funny group of people. I wonder what my class will be like next year?” she thought to herself. Then, she fell to sleep.

2018
2019
2020

The end.